Rip Van Winkle

paper three weeks late was no reason to get on Rip Van Wrinkle's back whenever he sat down to relax. Of course he delayed three papers that long. But what could they expect? He had other areas of interest--four clubs took every spare minute. Now they had Rip finish one of his overdue assignments. He was exiled to room317.

No one sat in the room; not even a moderator sat there to see that he kept on working. He was honorable enough not to leave, though he had a thousand things to do to prepare for the evening's dance.

Rip sat down with a book in one hand, pen in the other, and paper in front of him, ready to start his long-delayed paper. The scratch of his pen hypnotized him. Worn out after five solid minutes of work, he leaned back in his chair.

On the point of starting to catch up on sleep missed from long hours of manning a soda machine, Mrs. Gessler came in and recruited him to carry a box for her. Rip thought it best to stall his work for a sorthy cause rather than sleep.

She led him to a little room on the fourth floor which he had never seen before. The racket of pounding staplers ushered him in. The little men pounding the staplers looked like gray-haired munchkins, all dressed in eighteenth century clothes. He recognized that from pictures in his history books. Though all of them looked familiar, he couldn't place the wigged men. Perhaps they were some radical students from the 60's whom an earlier Mr. Miller had sentenced to staple programs. Would this be his fate?

He was set to unloading boxes of unstapled papers. After hours of fatiguing work, he quietly slumped down in a corner behind a pile of empty boxes and fell to sleep.

Startled by the feeling of falling, he awoke to find his book on the floor covered with dust. Afraid he had missed a class, he gathered his book, dried up pen, and faded papers and tore down the stairs. People he passed pointed and rubbed their chins. After many strange looks, he got the hint and rubbed his chin too. He had found that he had grown a beard.

"To grow a beard in a couple of hours--a biological miracle," he marvelled,"But no time for that now."

By his locker he met a friend."What mod is it?" he asked.

"Eleven."

"Good, I can stay for a mod before I have my class--American Literature."

"I thought you took that first trimester. But then, I haven't seen you for a year... Say, weren't you kicked out?"

"Kicked out for half a day? Don't be foolish. Mrs. Gessler had me carrying prorams to the fourth floor."

"Sure, sure," the friend responded sarcastically.

Poor Rip. Beside getting strange looks from his old friends, he missed a whole year of fun. Lucky he could catch up on what he missed by buying a yearbook.

Star-Spangled Spirits Assemble . . .

1. "Who's stepping on my foot?" 2. Apparently everyone's date was late. 3. Here comes the parade! 4. If you think it smokes now, Just wait until the parade. 5. "We represent the lollipop kids..." 6. Sit down, Kev, you're rocking the boat! 7. Pat McKeown--the goose on the loose. 8. Monica LeGrand says, "Buy War Bonds." 9. "Freshmen, freshmen what's your cry? I don't know. I don't know."

. . . And Make Homecoming . . .

The new drill team led the Homecoming parade, carrying the theme, "Star Spangled Spectacular," through the unusually warm fall weather despite Fr. Dominiak's worries that he would be the only participant.

One participant, the senior float, added to the warmth when it caught fire. But the men inside escaped unharmed.

1. Debbie Wanta, Katie Whittle, and Mary Rath dressed in period costumes. 2. The 1975 homecoming court. 3. Will the real Uncle Sam please stand up? 4. "We Cannon We Will" fire up for a victory. 5. Seniors, Seniors, please don't cry! 6. PEP--sodent smiles. 7. It's a Vogt's wagon. 8. Now we know how the Liberty Bell got cracked. 9. Victory was a piece of cake, according to the freshmen. 10. "Where did you say we were going?"

. . . Spectacular.

D.H.S. Welcomes Homecoming Victory

The Knights, having been down 14-0, came back with two touchdowns by James Thomas and Lee Palmer to make the score, 15-12. In the final minutes, Joe Jeffrey mustered a drive on a series of short passes to bring the ball to the St. Joe's 35-yard line. With three seconds left, Jeffrey kicked a 45-yard field goal to win the game and set a new conference record.

Revolutionary Steps Under Liberty Tree

Under a Freedom Tree, American Eagle and other star-spangled emblems, couples danced to the rock music of Moor's Creek despite a rumor of a conflicting engagement.

The young women of the court, nicknamed Martha Washington, Pocahontas, Hiawatha, Dolly Madison and Betsy Ross, and escorts graced the occasion.

1. "I just sat on my rose!" 2. Cross-eyed lovers. 3. "New shoes, Mike?" 4. "H-e-y..." 5. Who said Washington wore dentures? 6. Debbie Schroedel, meet Paul Malloy.

1. "Yankee Doodle Dandy" sailors and rest of crew get last minute directions from Julie King. 2. Ehr and Wolfe present "Nostalgia Theatre". 3. Dave Vogt had trouble following Joan's "Indian Love Call". 4. Nora Reilly models the latest from "Mort and Ticia's". 5. Julie King directs Lollie Sherer, sophomore director, under guidance of Bill Guccardi, senior adviser. 6. The cast sings for "Applause" under a bicentennial banner. 7. Sophomores pair up for a frolic "By the Sea". The Supreme "Suprimes" (Whittig, Daly, Honzik and McCabe) tell the Audience "You Can't Hurry Love".

WDHS Airs Variety Acts — "Nostalgia Theatre"

Mark Wolfe in knickers, and John Ehr narrated an old-time radio program, "Nostalgia Theatre" Variety Show.

The acts ranged from a "Day at the Salon", "By the Sea", "Far from the Home I Love", "Milwaukee" (doing a "Chicago" song), and "Indian Love Call" to "Mort and Ticia's Funeral Home". "Yankee Doodle Dandies" and a baton twirler provided bicentennial flavor.

1. The "Yankee Doodle Dandy" girls sing their hearts out. 2. Sophomore Director Lollie Sherer and Assistant producer Mary Rose Monroe work on the plans which make the show successful. 3. "This is Peter Mullaney reporting for WDHS, with an exclusive interview with Dave Vogt...er...oh...Frankenstein." 4. The Mullaneys and Peltons decide whether to boogie or waltz. 5. "Mr. Crowley, don't you think Kiki would rather be doing the bump?" 6. Maria Balistreri and the Pungercars discuss why this picture is in the yearbook. 7. Tired dancers sit one out. 8. Jim Weber plugs into the Variety Show.

Father And Daughter Spend Night In Naples

Over 300 fathers and daughters, the largest crowd ever, waltzed, polkaed and bunny-hopped to the Jerry Blake Orchestra during "A Night in Naples."

1. Sarah (Sue Normoyle) lives it up with the Cuban Dancers. 2. Sky (John Flanagan) receives the attention and support of Sarah (Sue Normoyle) and Arvide (Mark Wolfe). 3. Sarah (K'Ann Mullaney) knows her love's come along. (John Flanagan) 4. Sky Masterson (John Flanagan) and Arvide Abernathy (Mark Wolfe) ponder on the evils of coffee. 5. Gamblers Nicely-Nicely Johnson (Lee Palmer) and Benny Southstreet (Mike Reynolds) sing away their problems in "Guys and Dolls". 6. Sarah (Sue Normoyle) gets the feeling nobody is listening as she preaches to deaf ears. 7. Cuban Dancers get a kick out of life. 8. "Dulce de leche" sends Sarah Brown (K'Ann Mullaney) gallavanting after the Cuban Dancers.

"Guys And Dolls" — A Sure Bet

One of Dominican's most successful spring musicals, "Guys and Dolls' filled the stage with singing, gambling, and preaching. Sky Masterson, Sarah Brown, Nathan Detroit, and Adalaide led the cast in their three fabulous performances at Dominican.

Over 1,000 people jammed the auditorium for the final performance. Ticket sales and the ads sold by the students raised a total of $14,700 for Dominican. The forty actors in the cast and twenty-five members of the stage crew joined Ann Chitwood, Mr. Woods, and Mr. Kleckly in presenting this memorable event that highlighted the year.

Color My World; Knights In White Satin

Sadie Hawkins

A giant rainbow, colored streamers and paper crayons on the wall "Colored My World"--the pastel spring world of the Sadie Hawkins dance.

"Amber Jack" displayed its artistry for the record number of brightly-dyed dresses escorting their dates to this sophomore class creation.

Prom

"Knights in White Satin" promenaded in the War Memorial Center among miniature grecian temples and silver star and moon decorations. "Souvenir", the band, will be remembered for its rendition of the theme song and other pieces.

The couples advanced up to "The Top of the Marine" for dinner above the city lights and the alumnus-led band, "Excalibur."

1. For the 30TH time this evening, Laurel Huckbody and George Bichanich strike an official court pose. 2. Souvenir entertains the prom crowd with another rendition of the theme song. 3. Cafeteria Scene Of Music, Speeches

Sports Banquets

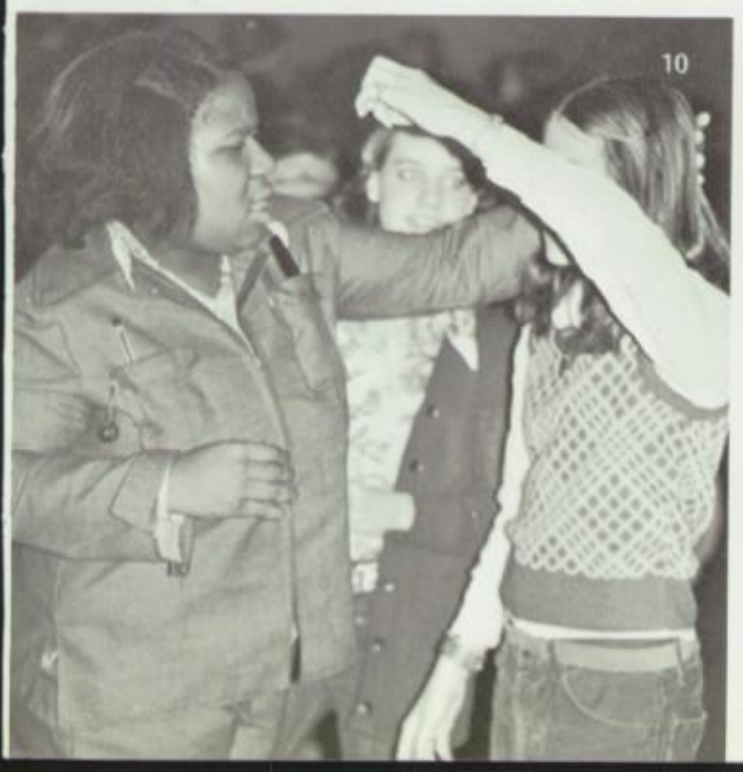
The sports awards banquet acquired a successful new format. Instead of one banquet in the spring, separate banquets concluded each of the three seasons; spring, winter and fall.

One welcome addition was films of the teams in action.

Despite changes, the banquet's purpose remained unchanged: to honor those involved in Dominican's athletic program.

Dances

Kids shook, shimmied or swirled to Amber Jack, The Moonshiners and other bands employed by fund-raising groups. Everyone did his own thing--"the bump" or "the hustle;" whatever the music said.



The Tale of Tall Lu Spree

On registration day the teachers who had been absorbed all morning in scheduling next year's courses, finally looked up from their last registration duties to glimpse a gigantic baby-faced girl peeking over an overwhelming stack of complete forms.

Although the papers flurring under the girl's competent hands stirred a breeze which rushed over the teacher's, they could not believe those hands had arranged over 500 schedules in only 40 minutes. No wonder the job had only taken one-tenth of the usual time.

When the girl stood up to shake hands over a job well done, her eleven foot frame (bent to avoid the ceiling), towered over everyone else. She called herself Lu Spree and dated her birth at thirteen days previous.

To explain her presense, Lu said," I thought grade school might bore me, so I chose to enroll here.'

The teachers marvelled at the good luck that brought them this eager dynamo. They administered the placement test which she completed perfectly in only ten minutes.

Thirsty for all the knowledge she could glean from Dominican, Lu completed all the that the school offers in two-thirds of a year. She joined the senior class to graduate with a 4.0 grade average.

Following her graduation, she evaluated Dominican according to her vast knowledge of the school. Her recommendations helped the school achieve a perfection, which astonished the North Central evaluators, who enthusiastically advocated Dominican's teaching style as the best.

Freshman year at college, Lu kept up with activities at Dominican while working a tough B.A. program arranged to give her a degree at the end of the year. She hand wrote 700 copies of Knight Life every third Wednesday, plus supplied editors with news from the clubs, since she participated in all of them. Appropiately, she extracted L'Esprit from memories of her activities.

With all this activity time passed quickly. Soon she was again helping with registration. From behind a stack of forms she waved to a gigantic baby faced sister.

A.V., Art, Pro-Life Clubs Add Color To School

Art Club

The Art Club added color to this school year in dance decorations, bake sales posters, and window paintings. For the bicentennial, some members donated their time to decorate Whitefish Bay fire hydrants.

A.V. Club

The A-V Club delivered the video-tape camera, overheads, record players and film projectors to the classrooms throughout the year. Guided by Mr. Trojanowski, this group learned reliability and understanding of mechanical equipment.

Pro-Life Club

Concern. That's a good word to sum up the Pro-Life Club. Concern for all life; the unborn, the handicapped, the elderly, everyone. Their activities extended throughout Dominican with speakers, concerts, and blood drives, and into the community with rallies, publicity releases and political involvement.

Pro-Life Club officers: Joan Wittig (literature), Terry Fitzpatrick (chairperson), Terry Burns (fund-raising), Alicia McDonald (publicity).

For all of the services donated during the year the students are finally honored. Clubs, academics, and special organizations sponsored these awards.

Among the honors were the W Club award, awarded to Pat Roche, the Mark Kasprzak Award, presented to John Baumer, and the Pro-Life award, given to Joan Wittig.

The new National Honor Society members were chosen according to the bicentennial standards, leadership, character, service and scholarship. The society officers employed the four great presidents, Washington, Lincoln, Roosevelt and Kennedy as examples of these characteristics for the star-spangled induction.

1. Patti Wingertzahn, Lenore Honzik and Tom Deinlein receive recognition for their A rating in the State Forensics competition. 2. The W Club, represented by Mr. Moreau, presents their award to Pat Roche. 3. Steve Springob becomes Dominican's 1976 Badger Boy. 4. The Mark Kasprzak award is received by John Baumer. 5. A farewell speech is given by Fr. Pulice as he prepares for his future position as Messmer's principal.

From the Star-Spangled Spectacular to the Spring Sports Banquet, Pep Club enthused Dominican through "Jam the Gyms" and pep assemblies.

Beyond arousing spirit, they channeled it onto buses headed for the games advertised on the inner concourse.

At pep assemblies, these elves and cupids wrapped the atheletes in Candyland and other themes for presentation to the school. Faculty class representatives, too, stretched their necks to reach donuts hung from basketball hoops, in competition the girls devised.

Pep Club Sponsors Spectaculars

1. Pep Club elf, Mary Pungercar, carries Christmas sprite, Susie Desmond, into seasonal pep assembly. 2. Just visiting, Santa Claus Bangs chuckles merrily at pep assembly festivities. 3. Mr. Mark Kleckley directs the 1975-76 Dominican High School Band.

Making Lots Of Noise

The cheerleaders using gymnastic movements, pom-pon routines, and original cheers heightened Dominican spirit. Through their new cheers they declared DHS "sharp as an alligator", and "dynamite."

Pom-Pon

The pom-pon squad using dance routines, popular music and rhythmic swishes of pom-pons provided high-kicking entertainment at the pep assemblies and during half times all year. It also added a strobe light routine, "Something Good", to its special repertoire.

Dominican In Print

L'Esprit

The L'ESPRIT people in and behind this book, commemorated America's bicentennial and Dominican's 20th anniversary, here.

Photofits, copy keys, ladders and cram sessions assisted the staff, who kept the yearbook in the black, though not always prompt.

Knight Life

KNIGHT LIFE activities and opportunities appeared in 11, four-page tabloids through news and sports articles, and community press releases. Special issues for Christmas (green insert) and the year's end (eight-pages) presented sketchers, photographs and special coverage of the seniors' plans, along with features like "High Notes," satire and the "Aquanuts."

Student Forum Constitutes New Ideas

The student forum started this year with a new name and some fresh ideals. Whether it be writing a new constitution, debating the smoking lounge, planning the marathon, putting together the Variety Show or dreaming up concerts and dances, they displayed wide involvement in many areas.

At the marathon many students displayed their skills teerer-tottering, rocking, dancing, and ping-ponging. Marathoners competed among themselves to see whose parents brought them the best meals. About $400 was raised for the scholarship fund.

ICHABOD CRANE

A well-groomed head peeked around the door frame. Brom Bones, ready to knock on Sr. Catherine's door stopped his arm in midair.

"You'd better warn Mr. Bangs that the kids are planning it for tonight," the lanky Ichabod snivelled. "How apprpriate they should haunt the dark like the other gremlins inhabiting this place. Speak of the devil."

"Hello, Brom. Ihope you'll reserve time tonight to study for your test. I'd hate to see our star center lose the game because he was worried over a test," greeted Sr. Catherine.

"Already studied, can't carry a book and dribble at the same time," responded Bones, "What heavy discussion keeps you here this late?"

"Nothing to concern you Bones," Ichabod hurriedly interjected.

At 5:00 Sr. Catherine ushered Ichabod into the hall and left for home.

Ichabod tiptoed down the spooky hall, frightened by the echo of his footsteps. Black shadows spotted the dim hallway. Like a shadow itself, Ichabod crept with fingers crossed, to the door leading to the concourse. He remembered the story he had heard as a freshman about a headless motorcyclist who haunted the halls after the school building had emptied. Rumor described the apparition as an alumnus whose eyelids drooped under fatigue inflicted by endless study, blinded him long enough to collide with a Mack truck.

Ichabod imagined the sound of tires squealing through the halls. He acutely heard them approaching from the far end of the first floor. They screeched around the corner.

Soon the specter followed closely on Ichabod's heels. He raced to the concourse narrowly escaping the figure wearing a black leather jacket and carrying a ruddy head showing black eyes glowing from within.

According to the rumor, just as the motorcyclist approached the outer doors, he should disappear. Praying, Ichabod burst through the front door.

At the same moment, the motorcyclist hurled his ghoulish head. Ichabod saw him no more.

The next day a smashed pumpkin littered the school steps.

'Till this day, Brom Bones still delights in reliving his impersonation of a ghost.

Faculty: Dedicated, Hard-working

The faculty members of Dominican High School were an asset not only to the school as a whole but also to each individual student. The relationship which developed between the faculty and the student body influenced each person to grow academically, spiritually and socially. The patience, understanding and encouragement of the faculty brought a sense of unity to the school. These qualities again earned for Dominican the North Central accreditation.

Consisting of many new arrivals, the Dominican faculty meshed together to form a strong and efficient team. Many former student teachers returned to make Dominican their full time occupation. Dominican has also broadened its horizons by offering new courses and scores of new electives.

Well, Dominican, we made it. Four years--short years, really. We've come a long way since freshman year. But we knew we would. We were pretty sure when our first experiments in float building led us to second place. There was little doubt left when as sophomores, we swept past the seniors to win the first spirit plaque. By the time we were juniors, we knew, when we raised the most money for the spirit chain.

Our senior year has been the most gratifying by far. After all, when you spend four years with the same kids you're bound to be close. We pulled together to produce a super float--and pulled a little closer as we watched it burn. From then on it was--charge! We did everything with a bang. Did you ever see so many seniors in one play? "Hard as nails, tough as bricks." We've "grown up more". The faculty has helped, too. They evidently liked us. As Sr. Maggie said, "...if they can look at themselves and believe in themselves, then everything will be okay." We've learned to believe in ourselves--we've been taught to. We've won the battles that high school has set before us. But how could we lose with a year like '76?

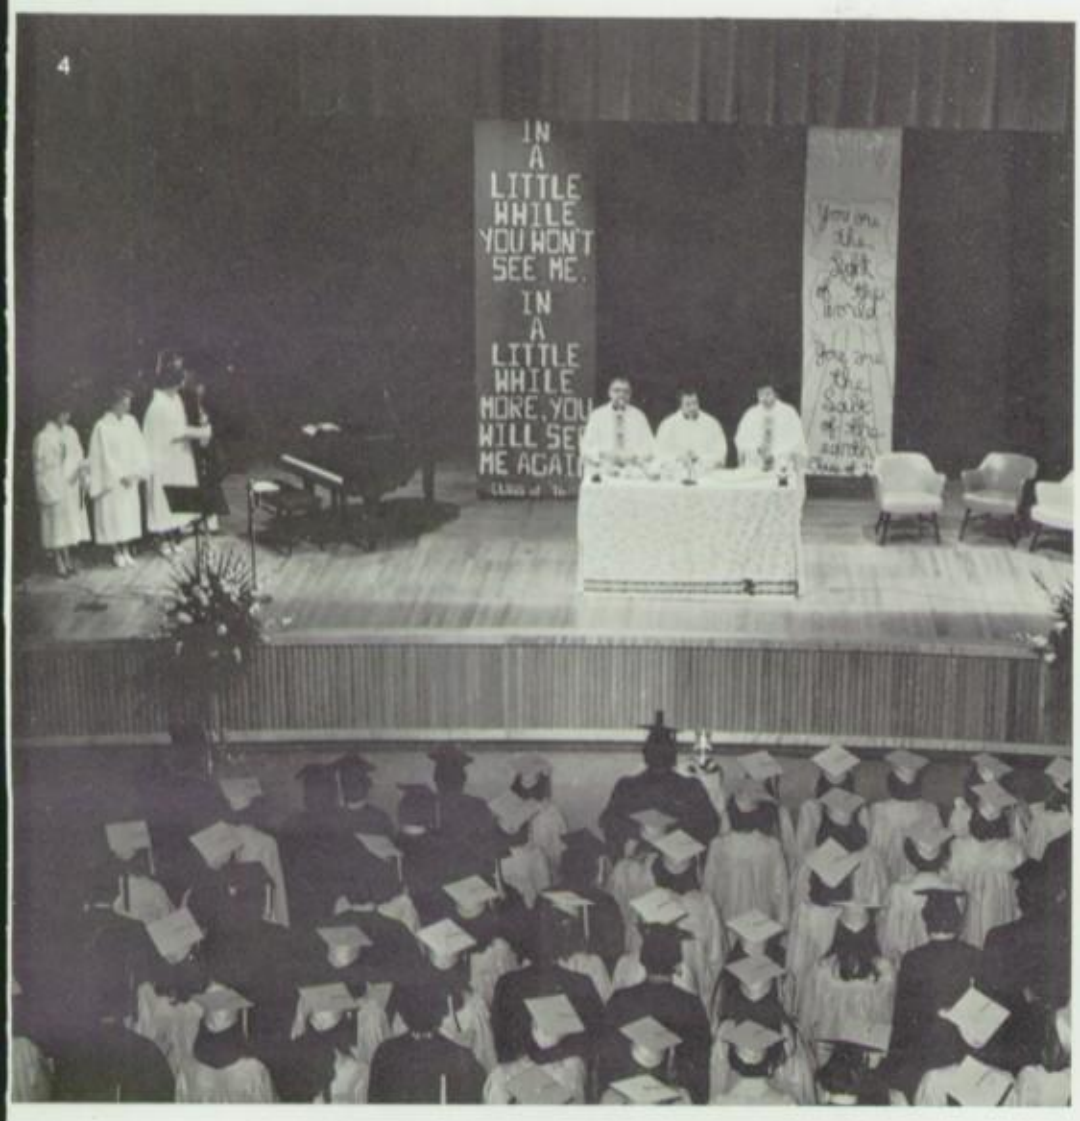
Graduates Celebrate Last Supper



Baccalaureate Mass

The Class of '76 personalized its baccalaureate mass by writing and presenting some of the prayers, songs and decorations itself. A banner bearing all the names of the graduates reminded the class as a whole of its participation in Dominican's activities as well as the mass. They were "the salt of the earth" as another banner announced.

The communion bread was made by some of the members and shared by the class and parents. "Peace I Leave with You My Friends" and several of the prayers reminded the class of the friendship it had given and received at Dominican.

Senior-Faculty Dinner

The seniors and teachers again ate together; not to learn the customs of the French, German or Spanish, rather they celebrated four years' growth inside and outside the classroom.

A collection of photos brought back resource centers and parties, friends in the halls and at prom. Baby pictures revealed people before they met at Dominican. Sitting at dinner or standing in groups, teachers and students reminisced over their memorable experiences at Dominican.

1. Sabina Haskell returns after her early graduation, to the company of Barb Geiser and other friends. 2. Parents and friends along with graduates, take in the advice of faculty and student speakers. 3. The invocation is presented by senior class Onnie Byers. 4. Perry Lemon accepts his diploma-- gratefully. 5. After obtaining their diplomas the graduates observe their classmates' reception. 6. Parents and graduates, together, face the many problems that will confront them in the future; not God or love, but bacon, lettuce and tomato sandwiches (hold the mayo). 7. Standard and Modification. In the company of Penny Kallas, Bob Kruesel assumes a more comfortable stance.

Spirit Of '76 Moves On

In the "Spirit of '76," Dominican graduated its bicentennial class--the class considered exceptional for its participation and enthusiasm--with the traditional commencement exercises.

Sr. Priscilla, faculty speaker, reminded the class of the embarrassments they as freshmen, and she as novice and new teacher, had overcome. She encouraged the students to exercise their potential; but in movie lingo, since she taught Mass Media.

The student speaker, Peter Mullaney, expounded the value of his classmates' uniqueness.

As the class thought of the times they had shared together and the exciting, but lonelier, future without those friends, they listened to classmates sing "By My Side" and "Moving On."

To end the ceremony, parents and teachers commended the graduates to God's care with a blessing.

Jumping Frog of Calaveras

The frogs crouched at the starting blocks for the third annual WISAA frog jumping competition, when a spectator jumped onto the field. He scooped up the favorite and dangled it in the manager's face. With a sneer, the manager, Jim Smiley, welcomed this challenge as a way to make a little bet money, beside prove his superiority over all comers. Confidently, he rose to the challenge.

"Your funeral, friend," remarked Smiley, "I'll put the cup on it."

"Done," rejoined the stranger, "Here, after the finals."

Smiley nodded, repositioned the frog, and finished the business of winning the championship and acquiring his stakes for the bet.

Cup in hand and frog in cup, he went to meet his foe. Smiley found him in the locker room. Good-naturedly, he left his pet in the stranger's care, while he fetched another frog for the competition. Smiley's keen eye chose an uncommonly powerful one from Rent-a-Frog. But he knew this untried and carelessly trained frog couldn't fairly beat the champion which he had trained all year, for many long and enduring hours.

County

Meanwhile the challenger passed time by stuffing ankle weights he had purloined from the basketball team's equipment room, down the throat of Smiley's frog.

When Smiley returned, the competition started. The challenger casually prodded his frog to an astonishing six foot jump. He complimented Smiley on his knowledge of frog flesh.

"Yes sir," he mumbled, wagging his head, "Sorry to see a man cut his own throat. But you sure guaranteed me a win when you got me this long-legged watch spring.

Smiley was ungracious and unimpressed. He scoffed at his impertinent rival and the jump he could so effortlessly beat.

Confident of a victory he prompted his own frog. But it stubbornly didn't budge. Smiley bumped and humped at his frog for two hours without even raising its spirits. Finally the judges forced him to forfeit the match.

The stranger hastily shook Smiley's hand and took his prize. Throwing thanks to Smiley for a most profitable match, he disappeared from the stadium.

Disgusted, Smiley prepared to slink home. He tugged his pet from the ground, grunting under the unexpected weight. Smiley shook the frog by its heels and out popped the weights.

Smiley :pt up with enough alacrity to make any frog envious, and sped after the escaping foe. But to this day, the stranger still has the jump on him.

Varsity And Soph Join Forces

Varsity

Coaches Mike Miller and Ed Clark provided the inspiration for a successful end to the 1975 varsity football season. After a slow start the team regrouped and strengthened its offense to make outstanding plays such as the 45-yard field goal by Joe Jeffrey and James Thomas' 99-yard run against Fond du Lac Springs.

Sophomore

The sophomore football team displayed its ability as they beat Sussex-Hamilton and narrowly lost to Pius. The members joined the varsity for its games beside their own.

Freshman

The freshman football team, with new coaches, had difficulty in handling the opposition of the Metro league. Lacking depth but not determination, the frosh fought through the tough

St. John's Military Invitational
Dominican placed first out of 16 teams with 316.
Regionals at North Shore--first place out of 8 teams with 333.
State Meet--Green Lake, Wis. --third place out of 12 teams with 336.

This year's golf team had more success than any in Dominican's history. It captured a first place trophy in the St. John's Military Academy Invitational, won first place in regionals, tied for second in conference, and finished third place in the WISAA State Tournament. Fr. John Pulice's strategy and choice of varsity members brought school support and team victory.

1. Team scores. 2. Lee Palmer mounts opposition for possession of the ball. 3. Team scores. 4. Co-MVP Terry Vidal lines up his putt. 5. Against the wind, Mike Sackett practices his swing. 6. Knights struggle under lance.

Sponsors, Competitors

Forensics Team

Forensics premiered at Dominican this year. Moderated by Ann Chitwood, the team scored nine A's, in poetry recitation, story-telling and other forms forms of public speaking, in regional competition. Of these, Tom Deinlein, Lenore Honzik, and Patti Wingertzahn received an A for their portrayal of "The Glass Menagerie" at the state meet.

Ski Club

The Ski Club provided a chance for members to leave school behind in a shoosh of snow at Little Switzerland.

Letterman's Club

Besides pushing pre-sale tickets, the Lettermen's Club members led fund drives like the hilarious donkey basketball game and two dances.

The money raised, $1,000, payed last year's debt and bought $600 worth of track uniforms.

The cross-country team, hindered by the lack of veteran talent, struggled through a season of rebuilding. Under new head coach Mr. Don Gosz, the harriers showed improvement as the season progressed.

Junior, Kevin Shanahan, the most consistent player, was named MVR.

Girls Pulls Together For Winning Seasons

Teamwork characterized girls' varsity basketball in a season ending in four wins. An overtime victory against the girls' rival, DSHA, highlighted the season.

Many of the girls had played together for several years. Since the team was small, everyone used the patterns, fast breaks and stamina they practiced.

JV

Though young and new to the Metro league, the girls' JV basketball team looked good, passing fast and running new advanced patterns. The loss of several players to injuries hurt, though.

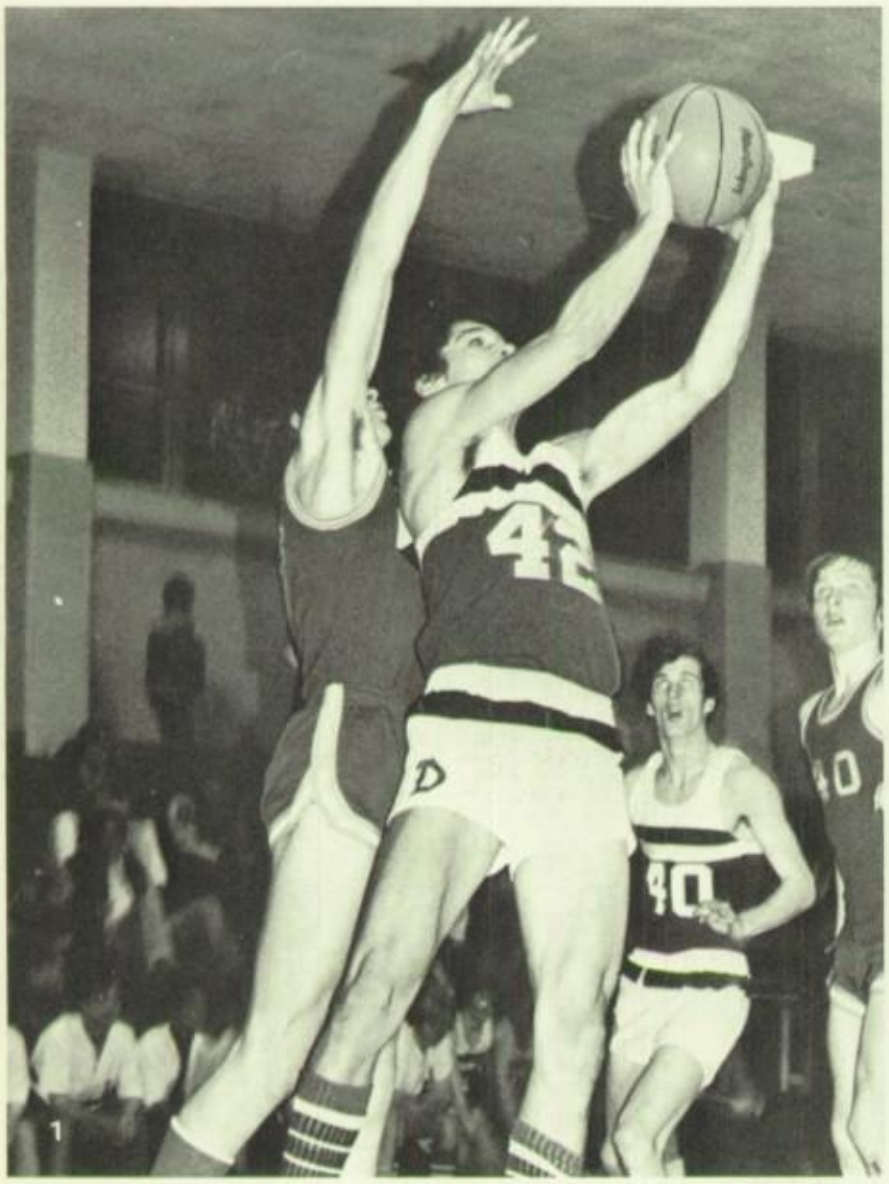
Seven Straight For Frosh

The freshman basketball team recorded seven straight victories, including wins over Pius and St. Kate's. Greg Dandridge, leading scorer, set a record for the most points ever scored by a freshman.

JV Rack Up Four Straight In One Of Best Seasons

In a close game against Messmer, the JV basketball team launched a mid-season spurt. Under the direction of Coach Bill Engibous, they rolled off four straight victories.

A second win over Messmer, after losing several tough games, ended one of the best JV seasons ever.



1. As Steve Brill looks on, Pat Sayas shoots under pressure. 2. Determined to score, Kevin Lemon moves towards the basket. 3. John Foley tosses a layup over the outstretched arm of a Memorial defender. 4. Team scores.

Varsity Hits The Hoops

The varsity basketball team burst open its season by tying a school record of six straight wins. After losing several key games the Knights came back and defeated St. Joe's in overtime. For his performance in that game, "The Milwaukee Journal" named Dedrick Elder Prep Player of the Week. By the end of the season, Tim Markweise and Rodney Wall had won places on the second all-conference team.

Enthusiasm "Unpins" Wrestlers

This year's wrestling teams consisted mainly of underclassmen. Although inexperienced, their enthusiasm was never "pinned" to the mat.

Senior Mike Weimer and Junior Bob D'Amato led the team by outscoring most of their opponents. Weimer, a 155 pounder, achieved a first place finish in the Metro Conference competition.

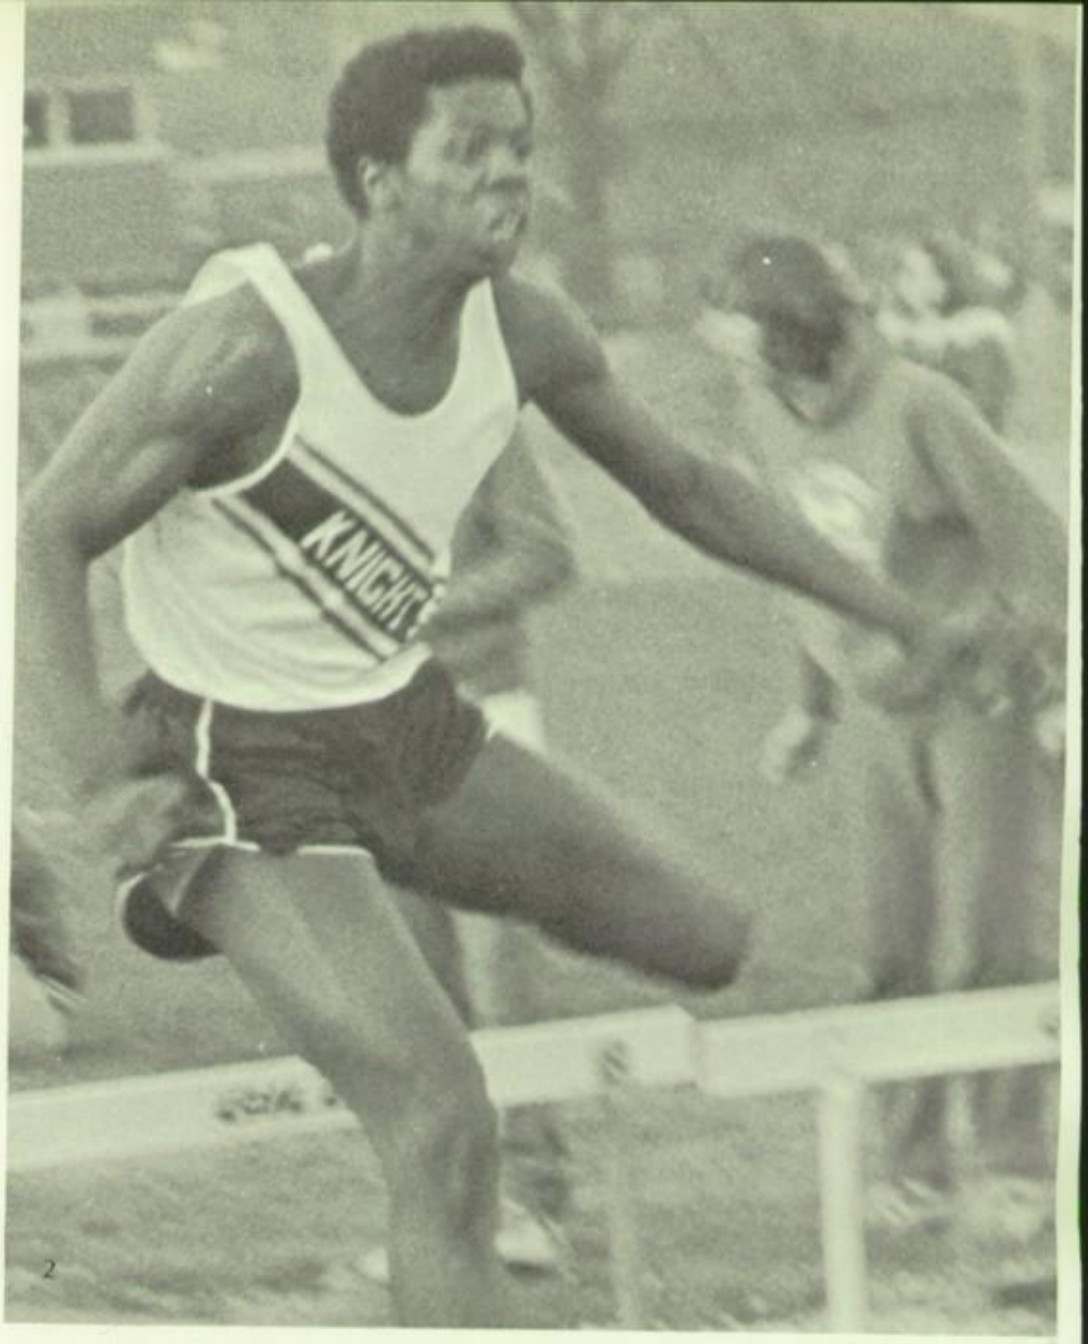
The track team topped off its highly successful season with a second place finish in the WISAA class A state meet. They also finished a close third in the Metro Conference meet and captured first place in the Shorewood Invitational.

Rodney Wall, the team's MVP, set school records in the high, low and intermediate hurdles while winning four first places in the conference meet. In the state meet he was named most valuable performer as he set meet records while winning the intermediate and high hurdles.

Other record setters were Myron Johnson and Bruce Billings, both in the 100-yard dash. In the conference meet, Johnson set a meet record with a time of 9.9 seconds. Billings set the state meet record with a time of 9.8 seconds.

The team, coached by Mr. Dave Bingen, improved as the underclassmen gained experience for the future.



1. Bruce Billings edges out Myron Johnson in the 100 yard dash during state competition. 2. Rodney Wall hurdles obstacles in his path toward victory. 3. Team scores. 4. Dominican trackster leads the pack in the high hurdles.

Varsity

As a result of hard work and experienced tournament and league play, the varsity volleyball team placed third in the WISAA State Tournament.

Throughout the season the girls responded to Coach Gianniou's enthusiastic encouragement during the long practices.

Junior Varsity

The junior varsity volleyball team displayed potential for future varsity action.

Six sophomores and seven freshmen comprised the team, coached by Ms. Mary Bantz, '74 Dominican graduate.

An end

or a beginning?

There was a time when a high school diploma could be considered an end — sufficient education for the job ahead. But no more. Not in these days of ever-advancing technology and intense individual competition. Now, whether you're planning on a white-collar or blue-collar job, the requirements are much the same — more knowledge, more skills, more education. And that means study beyond high school.

The decision is yours. Make it carefully, for it will probably be the most important one you'll ever make. We at Allis-Chalmers hope it will be for further study. Deeply involved in space-age technology ourselves, we know first-hand the crucial importance of special skills and education. Just as you will, in the future—when it counts.

I'll Miss You

It was a long time
Full of hardships and friendships
And memories that were long ago forgotten
We remember them, but they don't remember us
There were children, balloons and colored crayons
People with sicknesses cured long ago
And people with uncurable love

We live in a world we can't even see
With people who never could hear
We can still talk of forgotten events
Things we never could feel
We never thought we'd know what to say
To the people with questions to ask
We couldn't tell if the world disappeared
Or if we'd be able to give
We used to dance down the sidewalks at dawn
And laugh the whole day away

We want to forget the hard times of the past
But we know we must live with them
We knew what to do but now we've forgotten
And we strain our memories to find out

We used to dance down the sidewalks at dawn
And laugh the whole day away
